

The Statue of Liberty stands in the background, holding a torch aloft in her right hand and a tablet in her left. She is wearing her iconic crown with seven spikes.

A MESSAGE - to the Woman of the Home

DEAR HOME-MAKER:

YOU, who are engaged in the noble work of running the home, occupy a position as honorable as that of our heroic soldiers in the field. Without the sacrifices and uncomplaining services of the good women of America, there would be no national spirit—indeed, no nation worthy to be defended.

And so it is with perfect confidence that we are now asking you to help us with the Third Liberty Loan,—to do some work which is close to your home interests, which you are so well fitted to do, and which you can do right at home.

Please read this folder carefully. Then decide what you personally can do in the way of buying bonds. Then talk it over with the men folks and urge them to make their subscriptions promptly. If there are persons, not of your family, living with you, use your good offices to interest them. Explain to the servants how their savings, invested in Liberty Bonds, will help win the war.

You will help us, won't you? We shall be so thankful for your co-operation!

LIBERTY LOAN COMMITTEE

THIRD FEDERAL RESERVE DISTRICT
LINCOLN BUILDING, PHILADELPHIA